LARGE SUM REQUIRED FOR COUNTY'S EXPENSES IN 1921

County Controller Places Figures at Over One and One-Half Million

SAME TAX LEVY NECESSARY

According to the estimates submitted by County Controller T. J. Underwood it will require $1,632,655.80 to run Washington county for the year 1921. This estimate was submitted by the County Controller to the County Commissioners on Monday, and they are now considering the figures preparatory to making the annual levy.

According to the figures submitted by Controller Underwood, there is at present time $335,946.61 in cash on hand; he estimates that $60,000 will be collected on delinquent taxes; that $40,000 will be received in fines and costs, and $99,459.19 from money at interest, based on $27,364,798, leaving a balance of $1,046,250 to be raised by taxation. Assuming the valuation of the county to be the same as in 1920 namely, $139,500,000, it will require 7 1-2 mills to raise the amount. Controller Underwood submits in the budget the amount of money which he believes it will be necessary to appropriate for the year 1921 for the various departments of county activity, embracing every feature which requires county funds. This list includes the courts, road building and road repair, bridges, both construction and repair, the county and children's home, payment on bonds and interest thereon, salaries of officials in fact every item which requires the use of county funds.

With these figures for a guide County Commissioners will consider every feature, and within a very short time will announce the amount of the tax levy for the present year.

William Dennick.

William Dennick died at the home of his son, L. V. Dennick, in Canonsburg. He was the son of the late George and Hannah Dennick, and was born in New Geneva, Fayette county. At the time of the Civil War he enlisted in Company E, 105th Pennsylvania Volunteers as a drummer boy, but when his Company was called to active service he was given a gun. Mr. Dennick served three years with his Company. In 1871 he married Elizabeth Harvey.

Mr. Dennick for a number of years made his home in the Bentleyville section, where he was engaged in farming, but in later years, owing to his failing health, he was compelled to give up this occupation, after which he made his home with his son in Canonsburg. Besides his widow he leaves four children, Mrs. R. C. Coulter of Charlevoi, William Dennick, Jr., of Bentleyville, L. V. Dennick of Canonsburg, and Mrs. J. Wickerham, Eldora; eleven grand children, one great grandchild, two brothers and one sister. He was a member of the First Presbyterian church of Canonsburg. Funeral services will be held at the Monongahela cemetery

FAMILY REFUSES TO CARE FOR DAUGHTER

The police have been detaining a girl at the police station since last Friday, while they located her family or friends. The girl was found sleeping in out of the way places, and appeared to be "doped." She refused to give her name, but it was finally ascertained that the family lives at Naomi, having formerly lived at Fayette City. It is said they refuse to call for her. It is likely she will be turned over to the poor authorities of Fayette county to take care of.

RURAL SCHOOLS TO BE CONSOLIDATED

West Bethlehem township has joined the school consolidation movement so strongly advocated by the state department of education for the improvement of educational advantages for the boys and girls of the rural districts, and will unite three one-room schools and a portion of a fourth previous to the opening of the next school year.

The West Bethlehem directors reached their decision at a recent meeting addressed by Robert C. Shaw of Greensburg; assistant director of rural schools. Schools which will be closed are the Highland, Kneistrick and Franklin. Part of the pupils now being sent to the Myers school will be transported to the new structure. The new building of two rooms, built so that an addition can be erected, will be constructed during the coming summer. Three sites are being considered.

HEAVY PENALTY ON A GAME WARDEN

In the criminal court of Fayette county at Uniontown on Saturday last Jacob Harke, who had been arraigned on charges of larceny and cruelty to animals, was sentenced to pay the costs of the case, amounting to $346 and to serve seven months in the Fayette county jail. Harke, it is alleged, had received over $1,000 in bounties for killing dogs, which he said were strays, but which at the time had license tags and collars on them.

In imposing sentence Judge J. C. Work told the accused that he had "become a menace to the community; you have used your position as a cloak to violate the laws you have sworn to enforce."

The regular meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal church will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, in the church.

home of his son, L. V. Dennick, Wednesday-afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, in charge of Rev. G. G. Kerr, his pastor. Interment to follow later in the Monongahela cemetery

First of Group Meetings Will Be Held This Evening

What is the Chamber of Commerce going to do? That is a question often asked. What the Chamber of Commerce undertakes will depend upon the desires of the membership as expressed at group meetings to be held tonight and tomorrow night in the Municipal Building at 8 p. m. The membership will be divided into groups of about twenty persons, each group presided over by a chairman. To start the discussion two questions will be asked: What do you expect the organization to do for the promotion of your own line of endeavor or activity? Second, What, in your opinion as a citizen, is the first thing of importance to be done for the community as a whole. At the close of this discussion every member present will be asked to write down the things they have expressed. These answers will then be transferred to suggestion cards and from them the Program of Work for the coming year will be compiled. Members whose names begin with letters ranging from A through K are asked to come to the meetings tonight and the balance of the membership tomorrow night. The following have been selected as Chairmen of the various groups: Joseph Brand, Howard Terbush, Miss Minnie Richardson, George Risk, George Leith, Rev. J. R. Burdette, W. S. Sweeney, W. S. Sharpnack, Bruce K. Barnett, and George Migh. Be sure and attend as this is the only way the directors will have of knowing what you want done.

WOULD REGULATE SERVICE CORPORATIONS

A bill introduced in the House at Harrisburg by Representative Warren C. Harer of Williamsport, requires public service corporations to supply all necessary instruments and devices to consumers at the expense of the corporations. The bill would prohibit any charges except for service actually rendered, denying the right to make a ready-to-serve charge, meter charge or meter rental charge. Representative Harer also presented a second bill that would prohibit any public service corporation from putting into effect a tariff or schedule of rates until it had been approved by the Public Service Commission. The bill requires that the company desiring to change tariff shall give notice 30 days before making formal application to the commission. It also specifies that the company shall give the public a like notice 30 days before application to the commission.

FINE PICTURE IS SHOWING AT COYLE

What is conceded to be one of the best pictures ever shown at the Coyle theatre began a three-day exhibition yesterday afternoon. The picture was seen by large houses, at every show, and met with the hearty approval of all those who attended. "Something to Think About" appears to be very much different from other pictures and has a story which is applicable to present-day life. It is featured by some of the leading stars of filmdom, who present the leading characters in such a way, as to impress all who witness the exhibit. The music in connection with the picture, in charge of Miss Elizabeth Yellig, also comes in for a great deal of commendation, being not only pleasing in its character, but peculiarly adapted to the various scenes of the play. The picture can be seen this afternoon and evening and tomorrow afternoon and evening

MONESSEN BOARD OF TRADE SENDS MESSAGE OF GOOD WILL

G. A. R. POST CANNOT MUSTER FIRING SQUAD

Because the ranks of Jerry Jones Post, No. 317, G. A. R., of Smithfield, Fayette county, have been so thinned by death that a firing squad could not be mustered among the members, no military funeral was held for James F. Porter of Smithfield, a Civil War veteran, who was killed on Friday. The Post has more than enough members for a firing squad, but infirmities prevent some of them from acting in that capacity.

BIG FLOW OF GAS IN MONESSEN WELL

Residents of Rostraver township, living near the cross roads on the West Newton road, are very much excited over one of the biggest gas strikes made in that section of Westmoreland county. The strike was made Monday afternoon in a well being drilled by the Hopkins Oil and Gas company, on the Hopkins farm, the promoters being Monessen people. The drill had just penetrated the 50-foot sand at a depth of 2207 feet when the pocket was struck and a sudden flow of millions of feet of gas followed. The gas ignited from a stove which the drillers were using, and which was located near the derrick, the blaze completely enveloping the derrick and setting fire to the engine house, which was destroyed. The heat was so intense that the steel derrick was gradually melted down and practically destroyed.

The drillers and helpers, Cooney Noll, Walter Hopkins, Elmer Affey and Earl Chambers, were severely burned, being unable to get out of the way when the rush of gas came. Medical assistance was summoned from Monessen and the injured men taken care of.

No definite estimate can be made of the flow, although figures ranging from four million to eight million cubic feet have been given. Arrangements are now being made to put out the fire, which will have to be done by steam and as soon as this can be arranged for efforts will be made to curb the flow.

The well is located about one and one-half miles from Monessen.

BEGINS CAMPAIGN FOR A NEW HOTEL

The Washington Chamber of Commerce has begun the campaign which it is hoped will result in the erection of a modern 10 story hotel in that town. A meeting to further the project was held Monday night, at which time a number of subscriptions were received. It is estimated that $250,000 will be needed to finance the project, the balance of the construction account being carried by a mortgage. Prospects look good for a successful ending of the campaign.

Adopts Series of Resolutions Promising Support in Welfare of Two Towns

RESOLUTIONS NOW ON FILE

The Secretary in charge of the local Chamber of Commerce has on file a copy of a set of resolutions and friendly greetings sent by the Board of Trade of Monessen, upon their learning of the recent Membership Campaign conducted by the local bureau.

It is a matter of much interest to the residents of Charlevoi to know that their neighbor city is concerned with her welfare, and Monessen's offer to co-operate in any way for the benefit of the community is most gratifying and expresses a real spirit of co-operation on the part of her citizens.

Following is a copy of the Resolutions:

Monessen Board of Trade, Monessen, Pa., January 22nd, 1921. To the President, Officers and Members of Chamber of Commerce, Charlevoi, Pa.

Dear Friends and Neighbors:—It is with much pleasure I quote to your Chamber of Commerce an extract from the minutes of the Monessen Board of Trade for the regular meeting, held Friday, January 21st, 1921, which meeting was largely attended and the action taken was the good-will of all the 126 members present and we feel sure that from the warm and hearty manner in which the Resolution was readily and pleasantly adopted, it represents the sentiment and good-will of the whole membership.

Moved by Eli H. Wolf, seconded by John D. Chamberlin and carried that:

Whereas: It has come to the notice of members of this Board of Trade, both from rostrum and the public press that Charlevoi is organizing a Chamber of Commerce, and

Whereas: The purpose and objects of the two organizations are the same therefore

Be it Resolved, that the Board of Trade of Monessen extend its well wishes for marked success in all the undertakings of the Charlevoi Chamber of Commerce, and further—

Resolved that any assistance desired be offered and all cooperation possible be accepted and extended in the working out of matters affecting the public welfare of the two towns in the one Community, and

Resolved that the Secretary of this organization be instructed to send a copy of these resolutions to the Chamber of Commerce of Charlevoi.

Respectfully yours,
James B. White

READING FOR RECREATION.

A well informed article on the fiction great men have read for recreation would surprise the "intellectuals" who fear by morally rotten European fiction of the Dostoevski type and greatly distress lady librarians or school teachers who recommend only what the "best critics" have praised. For example, when Arthur J. Balfour started for America to advise the Washington government on our entry into the war in 1917 his knowing friends filled his cabin with "shilling shockers." President Benjamin Harrison was once caught reading Rider Haggard's "She" with evident delight. President Wilson's fondness for detective stories is known and a similar preference has been noted in the case of other prominent men of every keen mentality. Darwin is said to have been insatiably fond of fiction of the "thriller" type, as was Napoleon, who read novel after novel during his military campaigns. It is quite possible that the great French commander's fondness for the detective story is not recorded only because Poe had not yet invented it.

Critical disapprobation of detective and mystery stories is the result of a multitude of cheap imitations of the best models. Everything depends on powers of invention and craftsmanship. If detective stories are done as Poe did them, or as Gilbert K. Chesterton does them in his "Father Brown" series, they can be gratefully accepted by the highest type of minds. When statesmen or other men of large affairs turn to fiction, they want rest in forgetfulness and they can not get this in the "problem" novel or the finished literary study of every-day life.

TROUBLE MAKERS

The chief rivalry in the markets of the world, formerly between Great Britain and Germany, is now between Great Britain and the United States. This of itself is enough gradually to breed a hostile feeling which eventually might attain dangerous proportions. If this were all, however, serious trouble might be permanently averted by common language and traditions, similar sentiment, and the recognition that civilization itself depends on the prevention of the last-mentioned ruin of a desperate and prolonged war between the two great branches of the English-speaking race. But this is not all. Many agitators are doing their utmost to bring on war between England and the United States over the deplorable Irish situation. Though caring nothing for Ireland, the Germans are egging this Irish movement on to the full extent of their ability, both revenge and ambition firing them with the hope of rising upon the ruins of a war-blasted English-speaking world.

A WORKING MULTI-MILLIONAIRE

Great numbers of people seem to think that when a man possesses vast wealth he is free, can afford, and can be fully satisfied, to give his whole time to the pursuit of pleasure. They forget that merely taking proper care of a great fortune can fill most of its possessor's days with business, and they fail to realize that nothing could be more wearisome, more "stale, flat and unprofitable," than pleasure hunting every day the year round. Even the richest man must exercise his faculties in order to get any real satisfaction out of life.

This accounts for the interesting news that young Marshall Field, third of his name, being asked why the possessor of a hundred millions should go to work, has publicly answered: "I would consider it criminal if I didn't take advantage of my opportunity to assist in the developing of American industry. Merely having money is not doing one's share toward increasing the prosperity and stability of the nation. It's using money, becoming a part of the great exchange of ideas, investments, purchases and sales, that makes a man feel he belongs to the life of his country." To this commendable statement Mr. Field could have added that he also wanted an occupation in order not to be bored to death.

WHAT IS CHRISTIANITY?

Christianity is just what the Bible says it is and what the Sermon on the Mount indicates. While it excludes drunkenness and all the crimes mentioned in the Commandments, it also eradicates greediness, selfishness, brutality, coarseness and similar faults. Christianity is a grace that cannot be beaten into a child with a club, injected into a youth with a hypodermic needle, or legislated into a grown up by law. It is a grace that must come from God Himself, and no human is great enough to generate it for himself. The best way to inculcate it in others is to set a shining example, rather than trying to force it down their throats.

THE FIVE-CENT LOAF

The five-cent loaf of bread is again on sale in New York, after a long absence. Its appearance is welcomed with delight. It means that the highest of living has passed over the divide and that from now on there will be a general reduction to normal prices have been on the decline for months; but the price of bread means more to the masses than the price of any other article of consumption. In many of the restaurants of large eastern cities the humble nicker is again in favor, as a number of articles on the menu are within reach of those once-despised piece of money.

Henry Ford has generously distributed $7,000,000, or about $140 a head among the 50,000 workers he has been obliged to lay off, but even such magnificent charity as this amounts to no more than two to three week's pay. The incident ought to be but it is not likely to suggest to the promoters of the communistic idea that if all the accumulated wealth were divided equally among the whole population, each individual would receive too little to make the division worth while even if no other more important question were involved.

KAISER GETS HIS

It is said that the former German Kaiser employs more than sixty servants, and is regularly supplied with huge sums of money from the fatherland. Of course it is a commendable endeavor to raise money in the United States to feed the destitute population of Europe, but zest would be added to the campaign for funds if a little different treatment were accorded the man responsible for their deplorable condition.

The millions said to be needed for prohibition enforcement could be really raised by a tax on home-brewers, but it would first be necessary to catch the home brewers and this could not be done without raiding almost every household in the land—which would be same job.

NO ONE DISCIPLINED

Dispatches tell us that the fire which destroyed census bureau records had its origin in the carpenter shop in the basement, which shop was filed with shavings. No report yet of the discharge of the custodian of the building for permitting the shavings to accumulate.

CONVICTED MAN TO GET NEW TRIAL

John Ramsey, convicted with Hugh Lane, of the robbery of the postoffice at Fredericktown, and sentenced November 13th last to four years in the penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., will be released and given a new trial as the result of an order handed down in the United States District Court on Saturday. New developments in the case, which are alleged to give some doubt as to Ramsey's guilt, are said to be responsible for the order.

Ramsey and Lane were arrested a short time after the postoffice robbery, in which postage and War Savings stamps and money order funds were stolen. At the trial, which lasted several days, both men entered pleas of not guilty.

Early morning buses on Good Friday are an old custom dating back to the early days of the city. All manner of superstitions are to be traced to the custom. One is that the carrying of buses on Good Friday prevents the house from the "blessed" that has been long time in the kitchen will insure peace for the coming year. Hot cross buns baked on Good Friday and hung over the front door will ward off evil, is another.

The simple war-time inauguration of 1917 was hardly more appropriate than the simple inauguration proposed for 1921, costs being still excessive and suffering still widespread.

Animals Suffered in War.

Fifteen per cent each year of all the animals in service with the British armies during the war were killed, according to statistics compiled by the veterinary section of the Imperial War museum. In comparison with the human casualties the figures seem remarkably low. They are the lowest figures recorded in any campaign. Actually 484,143 animals lost their lives, including 5,589 lost at sea through enemy action. In all theaters of war except that of the Dardanelles, where 13,864 animals died. Included in the totals are 120,013 camels, of which 22,512 lost their lives in service. The mortality among the camels was very much higher than that among horses, although the latter were exposed to more danger from enemy action. In the last year of the war 86.82 per cent of the camels used in Mesopotamia alone died.

Mission Uses Boats.

A fleet of five gas boats, for the purpose of taking comfort and instruction to lumber camps and isolated coast Indian villages, has been established by the Methodist mission in Vancouver, British Columbia. In former years a large sea-going gas boat patrolled the coast, distributed literature, held services for loggers, lumbermen, natives and trappers, nursed the sick and gave medical assistance to the injured. For years it was an institution on the coastal waters. But the vessel was sold to the Dominion government, and the money acquired has been spent on small, staunch boats. Each boat has a captain who can preach and give first aid. Some of the boats have women assistants.

Too Much For His Brain.

When a very mad lunatic is admitted into an asylum all the other inmates feel sane in comparison to him. The other week a new inmate arrived at Springville on the Pole and he "Alas," went one slightly demented creature. "What ever drove our poor friend so insane?" "Mercy!" gasped an attendant. "He's the most violent patient we've ever had in this ward."

"He endeavored," reported the doctor, "to discover some means in which all the energy that is being expended in dancing halls might be used instead of going to waste."

And the thought drove all the other inmates stark, staring mad again.

Woman Gets a Shave.

Snowden B. Maslin, a barber at Chester, Pa., almost dropped his shaving mug when he saw that a woman had climbed into his chair and was asking for a shave. "I get shaved once a week," she said as he was busy with the razor. She declined all offers of lotions and she had her own powder put.

Shorthand Long in Use.

From references made to skilled writers in ancient literature, the inference is drawn that shorthand was known long before the Christian era. The first authentic knowledge of the art dates to the first century before Christ. The pioneer of Roman shorthand was Marcus Fulvius Tiro, secretary and librarian to Cicero, who devised a system which was little more than a list of abbreviations. Later it was improved to such an extent that reporters of the time could keep pace with the speakers by writing in relays. The system of the Latins fell into disuse between the Fifth and Ninth centuries, and modern stenography dates from 1588.

Pilgrim Fathers Were Separatists.

The Puritans sought the reform of the Church of England. The Pilgrims were Separatists from the first, who had already left England and formed an independent congregation in Leyden, whence they came to New England. They numbered forty-one families, 102 persons, landing at Plymouth December 20, 1620. They had previously made a covenant known as the Mayflower covenant, which bound them into a civil state with a religious basis. They wished to found "a church without a bishop and a state without a king."

Dog High on Roll of Honor.

To mention the dog is at once to call up a long vista of heroic deeds done by this noble species for the sake of mankind. Charlotte Fronte has recorded the finding at Heroniamum of the skeleton of the dog Delta, stretched over that of a boy of 12, with an inscription on the dog's collar, telling how he had three times saved his master's life—from the sea, from robbers, and from wolves. Evidently he perished in a brave attempt to keep the flow of molten lava from his little master.—Our Dumb Animals.

The fruit fly is a pale-bluish flame which appears after sunset floating about two feet above the ground, sometimes remaining fixed and sometimes traveling. Some authorities think it is due to the presence of phosphorated hydrogen gas, others to the combustion of methane. It is seen most frequently in northern Germany, in the swamps and moorland districts of northwestern England, and in the lowlands of Scotland.

Mary's New Pocketbook.

Mary had a new pocketbook with a coin in it. She proudly showed it to a friend of the family, and a man who adores all children, particularly adorable Mary. When Mary was not looking he put three new coins in the pocketbook with the original one and when Mary found it she was so surprised that she turned up and down and shouted "Mother, mother, my new pocketbook!"

The photograph has found great favor in China. Chinese buyers like cheapness, and they do not mind the scratching so long as the machine is loud enough. The record-making is most expensive, the most famous Chinese bands and singers being engaged. The Chinese do not care for foreign records, except for laughing songs and loudly clashing instrumental selections, with the bugle and drum.

The Roses.

The tea rose was formerly known as the tea-scented China rose, because of its peculiar fragrance, said to resemble that of a newly opened tea chest. It originated in China. Sir Abraham Hume, receiving from that country, in 1809, the first of this variety sent to Europe, a specimen with double pink flowers. The Latin name for the tea rose is rosa indica odorata.

PUBLISH MEMOIRS OF PEACE TREATY

Robert Lansing, former Secretary of State, who resigned because his mind did not go along with Mr. Wilson's, will publish his memoirs of the Versailles Peace conference some time during the latter part of March. The book is completed and is awaiting the retirement of the Wilson administration before going to the public.

Mr. Lansing believed it would be more courteous to President Wilson to await retirement before publishing, although it is not his intention, in differing with the President, to indulge in personal criticism.

The League of Nations covenant as perfected by Mr. Wilson and his co-workers did not meet the approval of the former secretary. Mr. Lansing has not denied the statement credited to him that if the American people knew what they were being let in for they would never stand for the League.

The February price to Pittsburgh consumers will be the same as that of January—15 cents a quart, and 9 cents a pint, delivered from the wagon. This was agreed on at a conference of farmers, distributors and representatives of the women's clubs on Friday last.

Thomas F. Oates has been appointed to a position with the Public Service Commission at Harrisburg, and has already entered upon his new duties.

STAMPS CELEBRATE PILGRIMS' LANDING

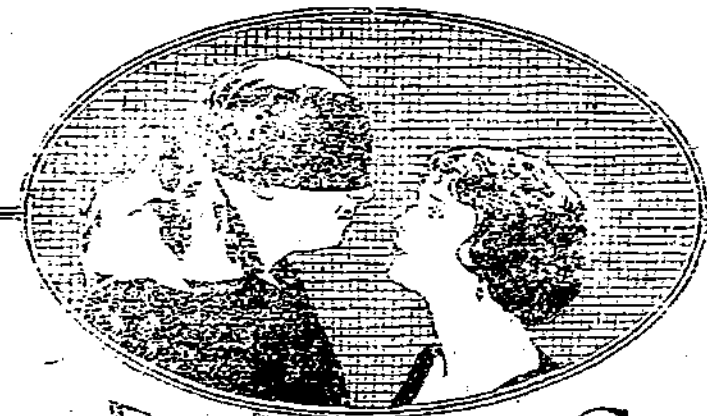

A new issue of postage stamps has been made to celebrate the tercentenary of the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth, Mass., and are on sale in all of the larger cities and many of the smaller towns throughout the country. They are of three denominations, one, two and five-cent, colored green, carmine and blue respectively.

A very unusual feature of these stamps is the fact that the words, "U. S. Postage," do not appear on them. Whether this is an oversight, or was intentional, is not known. At the top appears, "Pilgrim Tercentenary, 1620, 1920." This is the first time that the usual "U. S. Postage" has been omitted from a postage stamp of the United States and it has created much comment. In fact, there is some talk that the issue will be withdrawn on this account. In that case these stamps would become very scarce, as only a very few of them have been sold, and they would undoubtedly be of great value. These stamps were first placed on sale at Washington, on December 21, the date of the landing of the Pilgrims just 300 years before. This adds to the historic value of the issue.

SAILED IN SMALL VESSELS

Eighteenth Century Mariners Traversed the Oceans in Craft of Remarkable Frailty.

The crossing of the Atlantic by three adventurous American youths in a 35-foot yawl is reminiscent of ancient deep sea voyaging of Yankee sail-men in small craft. Some of these exploits are recounted in a study of "America's Merchant Marine" by the Bankers' Trust company of New York.
Big profits realized on cargoes brought from remote ends of the earth stirred the eighteenth century of seafaring enterprise. Such, for example, was the case of a ship sailing from Calcutta to Boston with a youth of nineteen years in command. This juvenile captain, according to the Bankers' Trust company's study, had nothing in the way of a chart aboard except a small map of the world in an old-time geography. He made the trip successfully and later became a Boston banker.

On the first trip of the George of Salem to India in 1815 hardly a man of the crew was twenty-one years old, yet each was qualified as an experienced seaman, and nearly every one was a navigator.

In early days the perils of the sea were regularly braved in what would now be considered dangerously small vessels. The famous Mayflower, which carried the pilgrims to the new world, was only a 130-ton ship. When Governor Winthrop built a vessel at Medford, Mass., in 1631, it was a 20-ton
bark, the Blessing of the Bay.

Joshua Raynes built a sloop at Bath in 1762 and later when his yard turned out a schooner of 100 tons, costing $2,000, it was considered a great under-taking for that period. The schooner type had first been built at Gloucester in 1713 and gradually displaced the old sloops.

Some idea of the kind of craft that bred the hardy race of American marines is afforded by the shipbuilding record for 1769. In that year 389 vessels of a total tonnage of 20,000 tons were constructed. This averaged little over 50 tons a ship.

Ravages of Influenza.

A decided relation between epidemic influenza and tuberculosis has been traced at the Ohio State sanitarium.
Of 615 tuberculosis patients admitted since 1919, as many as 249, or 40 per cent, attributed their tuberculosis symptoms to influenza, and 67 per cent of these had not been known to have such symptoms prior to the influenza epidemic of the last three months of 1918. In 33 per cent of the cases, earlier tuberculous tendencies were revived. A curious feature of 40 per cent of these so-called reactivated cases was that tuberculosis was not at first recognized or suspected, but for an average period of five months, in which many patients returned to work,
the symptoms were mild and apparently temporary. Other reports show a similar proportion of tuberculous patients among recent sufferers from influenza.

Industrial Changes.

Shifting use of wood, because of fashion or custom, is illustrated by the result of a recent survey of the wood-using industries of New York state. In 1912 there were several cane, whip and umbrella handle manufacturers in the state; this year's survey shows not a single manufacturer of walking sticks or whips and only one of umbrella handles. And yet New York and Massachusetts until recently supplied about forty per cent of the total product of these articles, with most of the remainder coming from Pennsylvania. It has been questioned whether canes have gone out of fashion as a result of the war and whether the automobile has entirely driven out
the whip.

Before the stately mansion of Lord
Falmouth, across from Washington
inn, the rest hut and club in St.
James' square, in London, stand five green posts. They are made of iron cannon, and are said to have been captured from the French off Cape Finisterre when an ancestor of the present
Lord Falmouth, Admiral Boscawen, was fighting with Anson's fleet. The mansion is now to be sold, says the Christian Science Monitor, but Lord Falmouth is reserving the right to remove the five cannon in front of the house and the two front door knock-ers. The cannon are a memorial of an age that is past, and a reminder that the Boscawens occupied this house in 1754, or thereabouts, when George II.
was king of England.

Fins Valuable.

Now that shark fishing has become a considerable industry, the skins being valuable for leather, there is opportunity for those engaged in it to derive additional profit from the fins.

Shark fins are highly prized as an article of food in the Orient, fetching 65 to 75 cents a pound; and the supply does not equal the demand. About five tons of them are received monthly at San Francisco, and of this quantity the bulk is exported to China.

The tail fins have no market value.
is the dorsal, pectoral and anal fins
that are desirable, chiefly for soup.
The fisherman should trim away all the fleshy parts and dry the fins thoroughly in the sun, without salting.—Philadelphia Ledger.

MORNING TO YOU, PETE!

Who crossed my trail in the hotel this afternoon but "Long Sam" Weaver! Last time I saw Sam to chin to was that night of July 15th when our old 38th clinched the "Rock of the Marne" title! And, I guess you won't forget that night, old glue pot—
everybody was stuck on you!

Sam and I fought the war all over again and dug into our Camel supplies like it was "free commissary". Sam never will get all done talking about that session when we couldn't move a hair without getting a close shave—and, no eats or smokes!

Sam has some song about how good Camels were to him in France—and ever since! That bird has the warble! Why, Camel talk trickles off his tongue like water flows over Pa Smith's mill dam! Pete, old carpet tack, Sam has a head all right!

"Camels certainly are friendly", was the way Sam put it in his old-time vigor-vim
style. "You know as well as I do", he added,
"that no other cigarette has such a mild, mellow body. And, there's no harshness or tiredness of taste in a million Camels! No objectionable odor, no lingering unpleasant aftertaste! Summing it all up, Shorty, I'll say Camels are the greatest cigarettes in the world at any price!"

Headed southeast tonight, with Winston-Salem; N. C. my first port of call. Some jump from K. C.! Pete, it's Winston-Salem where Camels are made! GET ME!

Sincerely

Shorty.
